GRANDMA'S HOUSE.

By Paul Terry

Little Rita Red Riding Mouse leaves Milt to go with lunch to her grandma's house. On her way through the woods, Waffles, a mean cat who has been playing tricks on mice and fish, spys her and races ahead to the house.

There he grabs Grandma, ties her in a clock, and jumps into her bed to surprise Rita. When she enters she is, of course, surprised to see what big eyes, what big ears and what big teeth her Granny has. Waffles jumps nimbly out of bed and starts to chase Rita around the room.

Rita yells for help, and Milt, hearing her cries, races on his wooden horse to her rescue. He smashes up the villian, grabs Rita and rides away with her on his faithful steed.
